Happy New Year

Dear Residents:

With the new year ahead of us, it is a pleasure to reflect upon the good times we had in our community last year. We have shared wonderful news as well as unfortunate sorrow, and we have many blessings to be thankful for and new possibilities that await us. The year ahead brings with it new opportunities!

Keep an eye on this newsletter as we bring you notice of familiar events and important news, and let me know if you have an idea for something new and exciting we can plan together. As always, give me a call, or stop by my office, to discuss activities that might benefit all residents of our community.

I wish you a safe, healthy and happy new year! Sherrie Hix, Recreation Director.

Do Something New

As a new year approaches, vow to try something out of the ordinary every week. Whether it's a new activity, friend, food or simply learning a new word, bringing something different into your world can enhance brain health and enrich your life.

Be Thankful

Start your year off with kindness and appreciation—January is National Thank You Month. Often people are critical instead of thankful, and an honest "thank you" can mean the world to someone. This month, focus on expressing gratitude and doing nice deeds for others.

Board Games and the Brain

Besides being fun, board games also benefit the brain. The strategy and problem-solving skills involved in playing board games engages the parts of the brain that control memory and complex thinking. Research shows that participating in non-digital games helps keep the mind sharp, even for people who waited until their later years to start playing regularly.

No Excuse Not to Exercise

Some seniors may think that staying sedentary conserves their energy and keeps them safe, but nothing could be further from the truth. Research shows that inactivity contributes to chronic health problems, and keeping muscles toned can help prevent falls. Other seniors may worry that they're too old to start exercising, but better fitness can begin at any age. Walking and other light activities can deliver big benefits. Diminished mobility is no reason to shun exercise, either. Many exercises, such as lifting light weights and stretching, can be performed in a chair or bed. Check with your doctor before starting an exercise program.

Wake Up Happy

"Start each day with a positive thought and a grateful heart." — Roy T. Bennett

Have a Healthy New Year

Make this year a good one by making healthy choices. Here are some goals to get you started:

Schedule checkups and screenings. Older adults need a complete physical once a year, as well as additional screenings for conditions such as osteoporosis. Ask your doctor what is appropriate for you. During your annual exam, discuss any medications you're taking, prescription and over-the-counter.

Set a fitness goal. If you don't already exercise, set a goal to be more active in the new year. Go for a walk with friends, attend a fitness class, or try yoga or water aerobics. If you already exercise regularly, great! Keep it up this year by introducing new activities to your routine.

Improve your diet. Lots of people go on a diet after the new year begins, but quickly crash and burn. A smart way to avoid this is to start with a simple goal: Maybe you want to cut back on caffeine, choose fish once or twice a week, eat a piece of fresh fruit with breakfast, or enjoy a handful of nuts every day.

Take care of your brain. A good way to help prevent dementia is to challenge your brain. Consider making a resolution to learn something new every week—read an article or book, attend a lecture, visit a museum, and stay sharp with games and puzzles. Also, don't neglect another aspect of mental health: depression and anxiety. If you are feeling down, reach out to a friend, relative or health care provider.

Beat the Winter Blues

The winter blues have a way of getting us down, but that doesn't mean we have to stay there. The next time you're feeling in a funk, try one of these methods to boost your mood:

Pull out the photo album. A U.K. study found that looking at personal photos lifted people's spirits by 11 percent. Pick pictures with fond memories, such as those from a fun vacation or family gathering.

Spread the warmth. There's a reason we turn to steaming mugs of hot tea or cocoa for comfort—a Yale study shows that warm liquids can make us feel happier. Taking a warm bath or shower will have the same effect.

Lighten up. Sunlight is a natural mood booster, and studies show that increased light exposure contributes to happiness and better sleep. Open your shades and have a meal by the window to soak up as much daylight as you can.

Put on a happy face. A simple smile is sometimes all it takes to raise your spirits. According to experts, our emotions respond to our physical actions, so appearing happy will make us feel happy, too. A cheerful demeanor will also invite others to strike up a conversation with you—another instant mood booster.
