Holiday Traditions

When we flip to the last month in the calendar, we know that our traditions of family get-togethers, festive food and memorable celebrations are in store. But along with the holidays comes a new year filled with new opportunities. As you sit bundled under a blanket, think back on the traditions you hold dear and how they have enriched your life. Then look ahead as the new year approaches; vow to try something out of the ordinary every week. Whether it’s a new activity, friend, food or simply learning a new word. Bringing something different into your world can enhance brain health and enrich your life.

Revel in the Little Things

As the song says, "It's the most wonderful time of the year!" While this month can be busy with celebrations, take time to appreciate the little, everyday occurrences. Notice the sun shining, a friend's laugh, or the scent of freshly brewed coffee. Psychologists say relishing a positive moment for a few seconds helps embed it in your brain and stores it in long-term memory. This process of "positive experiencing" can help you savor more of life's simple joys.
